THE COLLEGE OF ST. TERESA
Kansas City, Missouri
VOLUME II 1950

To the Sisters of Saint Joseph we fondly dedicate our yearbook, in loving gratitude for their many years of devoted service. It is to the Sisters that we owe much of the beginnings of culture in Kansas City. It was they who opened the first girls' school, Saint Joseph's Academy, on Quality Hill, in 1866. A courageous band of five Sisters came from Saint Louis at the request of Father Bernard Donnelly, then resident pastor of Kansas City, to establish the "Academy for Young Ladies." Protestants as well as Catholics had urged the erection of a convent school; and a substantial three-story brick building with wide corridors and large airy rooms was erected on a portion of the ten-acre plot secured by Father Benedict Roux in 1835 for $6.00. This tract occupied a wooded bluff overlooking the junction of the Kansas and Missouri Rivers.

For more than a quarter of a century, Saint Teresa's was the only Catholic school of higher education for girls in Kansas City. But the area surrounding its location at Twelfth and Washington Streets was rapidly becoming a thriving business district; it was time for Saint Teresa's to move. Through the efforts of Mother Evelyn, in 1909 the cornerstone for the new Saint Teresa's Academy and Junior College was laid. The site chosen was the old Buckley Estate at the present Fifty-seven hundred block on Main Street. Many people believed that students would be unwilling to travel that distance for an education. The intervening forty years have been sufficient proof that girls are willing to come not only from Kansas City, but from many other cities and countries as well.

In 1940 Mother Evelyn's vision of a four-year college was realized when the cornerstone of the Science Building was laid. This new building was named Donnelly Hall in honor of the pioneer priest who brought the first Sisters of St. Joseph to Kansas City.

It is indeed fitting that we at Saint Teresa's help Kansas City observe her hundred years of development in this her centenary year, for we have had a part in the growth of the pioneer spirit.

At this time we also observe the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Congregation of the Sisters of Saint Joseph. We wish to express our gratitude for the part they have played in the pioneering of the West and for their many years of devoted and untiring service at Saint Teresa's.

We ask God to bless the Sisters for their labor in His vineyard, and we thank Him for the fruit of their efforts which we are enjoying as we celebrate the Centenary of the City and the Jubilee of the Church in this year—Nineteen hundred fifty.

Rose Marie Aylward

Mirthful but magnanimous

Toso—the girl with the chuckle up her sleeve. If you feel blue, just look around, find Rosie, and your troubles will float away. After spending her first year at Loretto Heights, she came to CST and has been lively and loyal in all school activities since. With a flair for business and love for a good argument, Rose is well qualified to fulfill her fondest ambition—to be a woman senator. She is a particularly staunch crusader for the principle that it is a woman's right to change her mind. Hhe spare-time accomplishments include sewing, swimming, and composing enticing letters South-bent.

Barbara Anne Carrigan

Lively but loyal

"It's her Irish heart we're after"—Barbara with the smiling face. A congenial attitude, spirit of generous giving, and love of her work make her an ideal for any nurse to follow. In her own effective way, Barbara has made a place for herself at CST as well as at the University of Kansas Medical Center. Her ambition and persistence will be rewarded with her sought-after degree of nursing.

Betty Mae Coltharp

Pleasant but precise

Cooking and sewing are the very practical hobbies of this capable miss. Any of the faculty priests will vouch for her pumpkin pie or hot rolls. Nevertheless, her fondest ambition at present is to journey south of the border. Her Spanish major will come in handy down Mexico way. Betty's ever ready for a good lengthy discussion, a bout with the backstage lighting effects, or a box-lunch supper with the League of Women Voters. However, she's a typical collegian—she prefers her favorite sports, bowling and driving, to her pet peeve, term papers.

Judicious but jolly

Jack's of all trades and Peggy is too. And master of them all. Four years of Rockhurst switchboard banter, straight A's, and time for all extra-curricular projects . . . that's Peggy! She's had enough spare time to become an excellent seamstress, dancer, and photographic model. Immediate future plans lean toward two more years of study for medical technology. But her fondest and most future plans revolve around her own lucky thirteen.

Helen Frances Drees

Talkative but tactful

Helen—the fair-haired lass of the senior class. She is equally at ease behind the footlights, astride equus caballus, or in the swimming pool. She is very agreeable when asked to sing, but is averse to homework. And you haven't lived until you've been in a CST play—just ask Helen! Perhaps her desire to go to California is influenced by her dislike for cold classrooms. She thinks her social work will keep her busy after she takes her holiday, which she guarantees won't be dead.

Betty Gilmore

Smart but serene

The all-American girl, Betty is a delightful person to have around. With a ready wit and a keen mind, she has a record to be envied by all. Wholesome, jovial, gracious, and skillful, Betty is a whiz at the books, on the tennis court, or in the swimming pool. Her days at school have been well balanced: helping with student relief projects, keeping her bowling score high, and making straight A's. We think often of the other Gilmore—Nan, who is now in the Benedictine Convent in Nauvoo, Illinois. Betty finished in January and is now doing social work.

Dainty but discerning

The Muses were in a generous mood the day Maryan was born. With a probing mind, agile piano and painting fingers, and a deep contralto voice, she has made her way with a delicate ease. In her spare time she paints lovely countryside scenes reminiscent of her early farm life. Maryan plans to teach kindergarten next year, between bridge games. She keeps up with "the Joneses" all right—after-hours.

Mary Pat J. Heller

Busy but blissful

You might call it ambition. Mary Pat has what it takes any way you look at it. After teaching eight grades in St. Marys, Kansas, for two years, Mary Pat came to Kansas City, CST, and Ted! Throughout her four years she has been one of the most generous of students. Her hobbies are useful: designing clothes, cooking, sewing, and sketching during class. Mary Pat's fondest ambition is to have a lot of company to take with her to heaven—and closely following this: "No pet peeve; I love the whole world."

Rose Mary Ibarra

Gentle but genuine

With a loyal heart, open hands, dancing feet, and a ring on the third finger left hand, Rose Mary is ready to face the world. If she does as well there as she has at school, she'll soon be sitting on top. Although she likes the title of "Miss Windmoor," she will trade it for a Mrs. title this fall. Her pet peeve is no heat, and so—her fondest ambition is to go to Mexico!

Miniature but mighty

Everyone knows "Alsie with the dancing eyes." Ecuador lost her but we've been laughing with this beguiling little girl from Quito for the last three and a half years. She loves dancing, wants to use her math at home, but really can't bear chemistry or being campused week-ends. She especially likes to cook and sew, and has been concentrating of late on her plans to go home. The McInerneys have almost adopted her and hate to see her go as we all do, but Alsie says that anytime we're down Ecuador way, just drop in.

Angela Loscalzo

Small but spirited

You almost have to look twice to see 95-pound Angie. But once you've found her you'll look again at the fashionable clothes she wears with such ease. When she's not playing pinochle or working at Harzfeld's, she can often be found at her Uncle Jim's. She has decided to make her contribution in the science world, and will begin training as a medical technician next fall. A word to the wise—don't mention evening assemblies in Angela's presence.

Mary Jeannette McInerney

Ecstatic but earnest

Where there's Jane there's life! Witty, versatile, ever at your service, and a leader in many activities, Jane has been everyone's friend during her four years. With a beautiful dramatic voice and a sparkling personality, she has been much in demand to sing; and there's nothing she'd rather do. Jane's highest ambition is to do serious opera, and she has vowed that nothing will interfere. And thus has she kept the key to her own heart, and opened all of ours. Things which delight her most are Mrs. Miller, writing verses to her better half, and giving geography lessons in Spanish.

Droll but dynamic

If experience is the best teacher, Dody will have much to tell her second-graders next year. As regional Veep, she has attended NFCCS conventions all over the country, not to mention the frequent get-togethers at Rockhurst. Her aptitude for writing and her ready imagination make her always in demand by school and Federation publications. She's had an opportunity to handle big-money, and says "no thanks" to another car raffle in the near future. After Dody's two-mile hike to school, and her usual 20 hours, her days are well spent; but if she has any spare time after her midnight coffee, she likes to listen to jazz records or play bridge. Fondest ambition—to sleep the clock around.

Diligent but dreamy

You've read about people like Marilyn—now you've met one! There's no end to her talents and ambitions. A genuine artist, she paints portraits and wants to do commercial art; she sings; and she writes. Her interests in hobbies center around photography, basketball, and bowling. She can't stand gossip or prejudice, and—now take a deep breath—she wants to marry an Irishman!

Friendly but frank

CST welcomed the captivating Marjorie in her junior year after she had spent her first two at J.C.; and has managed to keep her busy every minute. She has a witty word for all, and in the future will keep her 2nd-graders quite as enthused as were the ones she practiced on this year. Marjorie admires antiques, but likes young people. Her spare-time energies are absorbed in keeping a low golf-high pinochle score. With her home ec minor she's quite well equipped for—yes, teaching, what else?

Shy but sunny

Piqua, Kansas, a desire for research, and an adaptable spirit have combined to give us the genial Martha. Thoughtful and cooperative, she enjoys reading, makes her own clothes, and plays a mean game of softball. Martha's fondest dreams will soon be realized when she begins her study of technology after graduation. She likes music almost as well as science, and has been an active member in the clubs which promote activities in these fields. The seniors were glad to welcome back her cheerful smile after missing it the first part of the school year.

Joan Nikolai

Imaginative but industrious

Do you want a car raffled? A meeting organized? A successful dance? You want Joan. She always divides her time—but somehow never does get off the third floor. Yearbook multiples, third-order determinants and problem chocolate cakes have kept her up rather high. Her wit, cooperation, and amiable discernment have made her a key campus figure. Joan's extra-curriculars include catholic action social work, Rockhurst after-hours, knitting little things, and an above-average game of bridge. And just in case you've a nice exciting meeting (business, of course) to be attended—she's free between 9 and 10 on Mondays.

Give Helen a blank sheet of paper and a pen and watch her go to work! We predict that in the next several years the fashion world will have a clever new designer in the person of this talented young lady. During her college years, Helen has managed to work steadily and at the same time to maintain a high scholastic average. Besides sketching and oil painting, she likes to go to concerts and to listen to records.

Stylish but sensible

If there's anything Joan likes better than an NSA meeting in Illinois, it's an NSA meeting in Missouri! She has really helped to put this student association on its feet at St. Teresa's. Joan's been around for eight years and still doesn't want to leave! Her dreams will be fulfilled when all the buildings are completed on the campus and she has taken a long rest. She's composed on the basketball court, at the bridge table, or in a French parley; but not in a Saturday class.

Genevra Jean Poteet

Petite but persistent

A busy girl, Genevra. 1942-44 at CST. 1944-45 at J. C. 1945-47 a TWA hostess flying to Madrid, Paris, Lisbon, Shannon, Cañada, Mexico. 1948 marrying Dr. Richard B. Crowder in Philadelphia. 1949—the adventure of her life—darling Charmain Michelle was born. In-between-times Genevra did exciting things: met many famous people, was a personal guest at the White House, played in a publicity movie, and was offered a Hollywood contract. But most amazing of all—she preserved her love for English Lit! Full of ambition, she plays the flute, embroiders, and likes to travel. Her future dreams include a return to Europe; her pet peeve is people who have them.

Demure but dauntless

St. Teresa's will truly miss Margaret's smiling face and lilting voice. She's been a staunch and loyal member of the Sodality and Mission groups, and has divided her outside interests between scientific and musical activities. With plans to do research work, she also wants to continue her study of voice. Margaret always has a cheerful word and is loved by all for her amiable spirit.

The South and West both claimed her previous to her advent to CST; she attended Kansas University her first and second years, and Western Kentucky State College last year. Active but amiable

A genial Irish wit, Aileen. Her quick answers, soft manner, and extensive brain work have put Aileen on top throughout her college career. She has always been very active in the workings of student government, and has put this interest into practical application during the past year in her guidance of the student body. Realizing the necessity of a sound student government at all times, Aileen has helped to make the National Student Association an active organ in campus activities. Besides making A's, Aileen's hobbies include playing Chopin preludes, sewing, and taking ads for the Star.

Capable but composed

The seniors have been thinking that something was missing. It was. We've been missing Sadie during the last semester. The little gal from Honolulu came to us as a freshman, and ever since then we've been making room for her to move on up. Her immediate love has always been biology, and who can ever forget the tragedy of the deaths of "Dante" and "Beatrice," her pet hamsters? Sadie's analytic mind and scientific facility have made her an outstanding student and a dependable leader. As the Mission Club president, she earned the Paladin Leader award. Sadie is now working for a master's degree at the University of Texas.

To be the telescope of student life is the aim of the National Federation of Catholic College students. The Federation seeks to show the Catholic student a broader and clearer view of the world about him viewed through the light of his faith. A formation of lay apostles and the rechristianization of society are its immediate and ultimate goals.

Eerybody belongs to NSA, but the whispering around the north bulletin board is the NSA committee, whose objective is the promotion of this organization on the campus. Though St. Teresa is a new member, she is among 300 colleges which flocked to NSA doors during the last three years. Joan O'Donnell is the delegate and committee chairman.

The two campus religious organizations are the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the Mission group of the CSMC.

The SHIELD

Chief project of the Sodality was the Marian Day held on March 26. Other activities included recitation of the Angelus and the Little Office, and the purchase of the May Queen's robe and crown.

The Mission Club conducts a monthly Holy Hour at the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration, collects stamps, sews and prays for the missions.

Two Sophomores Appointed To Head "Teresian" Staff

Dorothy Brandt

Barbara Riley

Several staff appointments have been made for The Teresian. Editor-in-chief for the year Dorothy Brandt, Barbara Riley will take over the post of associate editor and business manger, while the feature editors will include Barbara Schmid, Helen Lathrop, Mary Jo Beuder, and Dorothy McKinley. Marian Neiman, Jean Carrigan, and Pat Maggard are also staff members.

Aileen Shine, president of the Student Association, will write up the activities and aims of the organization each month. Helen Lathrop will feature in her column, What's What, criticisms of books and novels read by the girls during each month. And Terescope will bring some fascinating features of student activity. The staff later will be augmented by the addition of members of the freshmen class.

Regional Congress To Meet in Omaha

If you see a number of excited but tired faces on Monday, October 10, you'll know they must have just come back from the Omaha meeting of the NFCCS. Right now plans are still being made, and reservations are being accepted for students wishing to make the trip. This will be the Regional Fall Congress, to be held October 8, at Creighton University in Omaha.

The meeting itself will be of a different nature than former conventions in the Region. There will be members from ten neighboring colleges attending, and all will be there to contribute their ideas on how best to implement the theme of the year—a call to the lay apostolate. The commission programs will be the outcome of these discussions, thereby eliminating any program thought up only by the chairman, which has often been the situation. Primarily, the Players are concerned with contributing to the growth of vital and alive theater throughout the length and breadth of America. Too, they wish to bring the freshness and spontaneity of University theater to the people of America.

The Players have been enthusiastically encouraged by George Abbott, Dan O'Shea, Michael Todd, and numerous other East and West coast producers, who time and again have expressed the urgent need that the legitimate theater has for this type of influence.

Kansas City is fortunate in having the opportunity to see these players. The College Auditorium will accommodate approximately five hundred at each performance. Be sure to write in for your reservations early or call JA 3522 and ask for the ...

DramaDepartment Selects Fantasy For Fall Play

Death Takes a Holiday will be the first play of the season produced by the Drama Department. This play is an Italian fantasy by Alberto Casella and promises plenty of opportunity for dramatic talents.

Sister Felice has scheduled the production for November 20-21, at 8:30 p.m. with a matinee on November 19, for the high school students and the sister teachers.

Casting will take place the first week in October. The play as slightly revised, has five male roles and seven female. Watch the bulletin board for the description of characters.

Any student knowing young men interested in acting, please inform the Drama Department immediately so that invitations to try-outs may be extended to them.

Not only students with acting talent are needed to make the play a success, but those interested in backstage work and publicity can likewise lend assistance.

Help Retain Trophy By Entering Contest

Friends, Teresians, schoolmates! Lend us your ears—

The Catholic Community Library will sponsor a written Book Review contest, the results of which will be announced during National Book Week, November 13-19. Individual prizes will be awarded, but still more important, points gained in this contest will be added to those gained in the Young Catholic Writers Contest held in the spring.

The college winning the highest total of points in these two contests will take possession for one year of the Charles T. Manley Trophy for Literary Excellence. This trophy has been held for two successive years by the College of St. Teresa.

The book reviewed must be the product of a Catholic author and the review must be from 450 to 500 words in length. For further information concerning the rules of the contest, see the bulletin board in Room 302.

Faculty-Student Tea In Lounge Tomorrow

Freshmen, here's your opportunity to meet all of your prospective teachers. Tomorrow, September 29, from 3:00-5:00, the faculty will assemble in the Georgian Lounge for their annual tea.

Every student at the College is cordially invited to come. Many have not met the new staff members. And after three months the former students may greet old teachers and each other.

Mixer

Cancel your dates for Friday night! Better still, tell the boys to meet you at the mixer. Each year this provides fun for everyone. In addition, introductions are foremost on the evening's agenda.

For one night boys and girls will get together at this woman's college. Come all, and remember—no obligations, no dates!

THE TERESIAN—a non-partisan official publication about the students, for the students, and by the students—sails from the presses monthly. Captain of the ship is Dorothy Brandt; helmsman Barbara Riley guides THE TERESIAN down the financial strait. The feature crew consists of Helen Lathrop, Dorothy McKinley, Jean Carrigan, and Barbara Schmid. The Associated Collegiate Press has awarded the paper a first-class rating; and the Catholic School Press Association, an All-Catholic standing.

Rose Mary Ibarra, Alsacia Izurieta, Bertha Garza, Helen Drees, Joanne Donahoe.

If you have an ear for South-of-th-Border tunes, enjoy the rumba, or just want to talk a little Spanish, investigate the Spanish Club. There's only one catch—the member must be able to converse in that tongue.

BETTY MAE COLTHARP
President

It's the Music Club if you like to sing, play a musical instrument, or listen to others perform. The group's activities include monthly programs and meetings, and bi-weekly record sessions in the Georgian Lounge.

Peggy Atha, Mary Elizabeth Jelicic, Rita Olson, Joanne Donahoe, Marilyn Moore.

Whenever acting, painting scenery, carpeting a platform, or just driving a nail is needed, the Dramatic Club is ready to lend a helping hand. Three major productions have been presented this year: DEATH TAKES A HOLIDAY, CINDERELLA, and THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST. The Club also sponsored the Catholic University Players in their Shakespearian play, MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

Loretta Monack and Joan Pavola try out new equipment in the developing room.

Test tubes, wonder drugs, and photography add up to one thing, Sigma Chi Iota, better known as the Science Club. Each member boasts at least eight hours of science.

New photographic equipment has aroused every SCI to dust off her Brownie and to hunt for interesting subject matter.

ANGELA LOSCALZO
President

KNEELING: Nancy Draney, Florence O'Gara, Dottie Exler, Joan Pavola. SECOND ROW: Sue Malone, Teresa Schorgl. STANDING: Rita Treadwell, Evelyn Kipping, Helen Fitzsimons, Ann Tomlinson.

Bruises and broken bones are not the objectives of the Athletic Association—just an added attraction. Its policy doesn't bar those who are limited in skill in bowling, basketball, badminton, horseback riding, skating, softball, and tennis.

Members of the League of Women Voters meet every two weeks to discuss current political affairs and attempt to reach an intelligent conclusion concerning them. The CST unit is affiliated with girls from JC and KCU. They have box-lunch suppers and thus combine their social activities with their community spirit.

Jean Carrigan, Fatima Wu, Pat Jordan, Ximena Cordovez
Anna Laura Hennessey, Mary Alice Taylor, Mary Kay Watson

Their meetings aren't always so formal! Members of the International Relations Club calmly discuss world situations in the Lounge. They sometimes meet in homes and study ways and means of understanding foreign problems. The IRC is a campus unit of the regional NFCCS commission. Mary Kay Watson is president of the group.

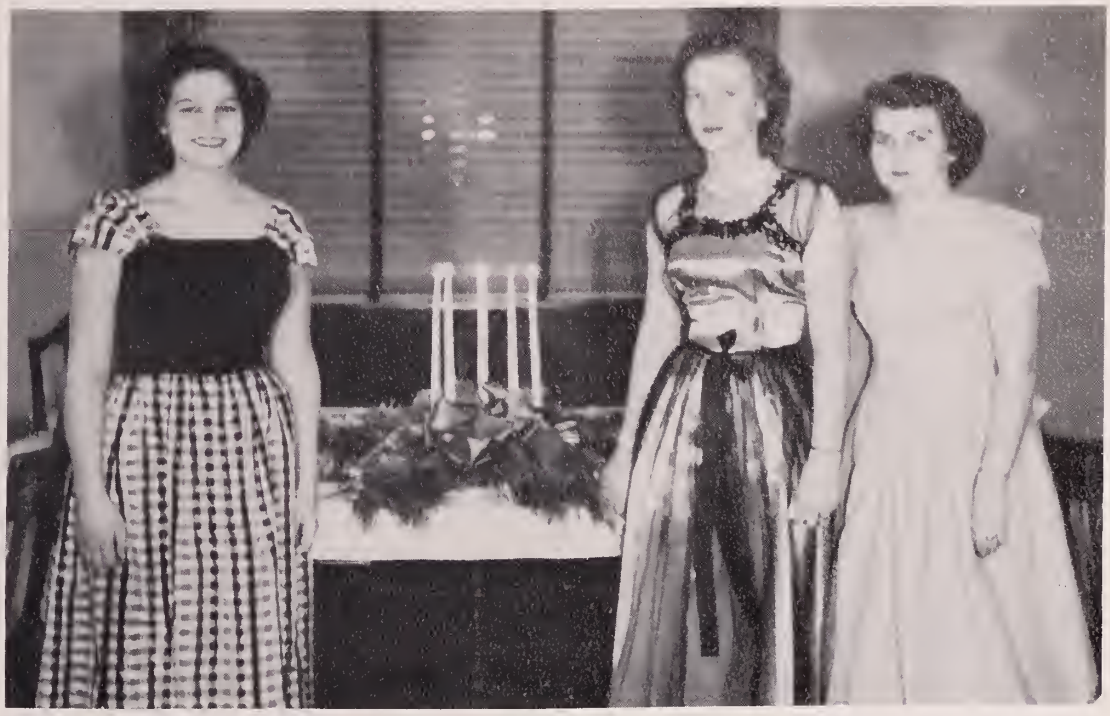
Christmas Cantata

The last night before vacation is annually the scene of the boarders' formal Christmas dinner, which is preceded by the beautiful candlelight procession.



Boarders' Association officers are Dorothy Exler, vice-president; Peggy Atha, president; and Mary Slattery, secretary-treasurer.

Continuing the newly-established tradition of lighting the Advent Wreath are Peggy Denzer, Dorothy Easterday, Aileen Shine, and Sadie Yoshida.

Father Richard J. Schumacher addresses the "pops and mops"

Helen Lathrop is diverted by the antics of Mr. Aylward and Rose.

The Father - Daughter Banquet

The Father - Daughter Banquet — when the Charleston competes with the Hucklebuck, and Dad is King for a Day! Fried chicken, the after-dinner speeches that made us think "I didn't know Daddy cared so much," and dancing until 1 a.m. at Blue Hills are all part of our never-to-be-forgotten date of the year.

The photographer catches the eye of Mr. Reintjes and Margaret, Mr. McKinley and Dody.

Dear hearts and gentle people were present at the Valentine dance. Freshman energy and ingenuity worked with Cupid's arrows and the magic melodies of Pat Loftus to provide one of the most exciting nights of the year at the Santa Fe Country Club.

Rosetta Pedicini, Helen Fitzsimons, Pat Flaherty, and Margaret Ann Bellinger and their escorts await their turn at the punch table.

The first class to work for the bachelor of science degree in nursing donned preclinical student uniforms and began their courses at St. Joseph's Hospital: Joan Pavola, Nancy Draney, Rita Treadwell, Lesta McConnell, Ruth Roche, Dorothy Exler, Dorothy Plassmeyer, Mary Lou Waldman, Evelyn Kipping, and Ann Tomlinson. Jean Wigert and Sister Mary Mark were not present when the picture was taken.

DISCUSSION CLUB B. The newest jokes, funniest charades, and deepest problems are aired and solved in the inter-collegiate discussion groups of Rockhurst and St. Teresa. Father Freeman's only request: members must bring their sense of humor with them, and leave their self-respect at home.

Jane McInerney and Rose Aylward receive refreshments from Betty Bourk, an alumna, at the St. Patrick's Day Tea and Fashion Show.

Happy sodalists form the maids' court and the daisy chain for May-crowning festivities. They are class-elected and help beautify the spring ceremonies honoring Mary. May Queen Peggy Denzer crowned our Heavenly Queen on Sunday, May 5. Standing: Peggy Atha, Kathyrn Stark, Betty Detten, Rose Aylward, Jane McInerney, Marjorie Nash, Dorothy Easterday, Mary Lou Waldman, and Dorothy Brandt. Seated: Marian Niemann, Pat McGrath, and Marianne Barry.

Graduation

Our intent faces, listening ears, and just a touch of nostalgia mark that day of days, graduation. We have hopeful visions of the future and reminiscent glances over the past four years as we thoughtfully listen to words of congratulation. We do indeed "look before and after, and pine for what is not . . . . "
